

Contents

Getting the most out of Smart Scripts	6
You don't have to be drama specialists to use the resource effectively and to make it fun.
.....
Using the play for group reading	7
Helping the children to read playscripts	7
Advice and guidance on using the scripts as a shared reading activity.
Reading Captain Greenbeard's Eco-Adventure	9
Help with matching the reader to the character, and information about plot, style and the characters.
Being a Script Detective	12
Exploring and responding to the issues arising from the script.
.....
Using the play for drama	14
What makes a good drama lesson?	14
Specific guidance for the non-specialist teacher on running great drama lessons.
Drama techniques with Captain Greenbeard's Eco-Adventure	16
A glossary of the drama techniques suggested in the Workshops.
Workshop one: 'I thought I was really there!' – How to create an atmosphere	17
Work with the techniques of frozen scene, quick-thaw and thought tracking.
Illustration one – A busy harbour scene	21
Workshop two: 'Listen to this' – Creating a soundscape	22
Work with the techniques of soundscape and visualisation, and revisit frozen scene and quick-thaw.

Workshop three: 'Ahoy, we're outward bound!' – Working together as a crew	26
Work with the technique of teacher in role and revisit thought tracking and soundscape.
Illustration two – Sailors working together to haul up the sails	30
Workshop four: 'Getting into character' – Bringing the script to life with expressive performance	31
Work with the technique of interview and developing expression using the script.
.....
Developing a finished performance	35
The class assembly	35
Developing ideas, scene by scene, for a class assembly.
Additional ideas for a fully developed performance	36
More ideas for a fully realised performance.
Making the most of lights, music, costume and staging	37
Including non-performers in the action.
.....
'Ahoy there – write away!'	39
Ideas for writing topics including the exploration of different genres.
Captain Greenbeard's Eco-Adventure across the curriculum	42
Quick reference for using the play in other curriculum areas.
Assessment Focuses	45
Specific Assessment Focuses covered through working on the play.
Self-evaluation sheets	46
Two photocopiable sheets to help the children reflect on their experience.	